

FIRST ANNOUNCEMENT

Following the success of Youth camps in England and Germany, EDA has the pleasure of announcing an international youth camp (Youth aged 18-28 years) for European youth with dyslexia. This time it will be held Between July 24 and July 30, 2016 in Malta.

Here are some of the events we have planned:

This youth camp intends to provide the context for European Youth (from all over Europe) with Dyslexia to come together. We want to again give youth the possibility to improve their knowledge of English and give them confidence in communicating in English. Youth will have the opportunity to share their experiences in a supportive setting and get the chance to make international friends.

Youth will have the opportunity to participate in workshops. The theme of these workshops will be building our self-confidence and self-esteem. The programme includes exploring the islands of both Malta and Gozo as well as free time for swimming and relaxation. In the evenings youth will spend time together with barbecues on the beach, playing board games, film fora and free time. English will be the language in use during workshop and free time. Cost of the week (Excluding travelling to and from Malta) will be 350 euro. Further details will be provided by February 2016.

I am really looking forward to next year, when I hope to see familiar faces and also new faces in the project. I hope the experience this project has given me, will in the future give others the same and will continue to grow as a project. I've learnt to roll my "r's", putting "li" at the end of each word to make it sound Swiss and to communicate with actions. It just shows that an international week like this, language barriers do not stand in the way of true friendships.

Emily from London, participant in the 2015 Germany Youth Camp